Originally from British Columbia, I have been drawn to the University of Lethbridge twice: first as an undergraduate student (BA '11) in 2007, and again in 2021 when I joined the Student Enrolment and Registrar Services (SEARS) team as the Manager of Admissions & Transfer. After completing my Master of Arts at Carleton in 2013, I spent several years away from post-secondary education, but something about the environment and the opportunity to support emerging learners ultimately brought me back.

Throughout my career in post-secondary education, I have been dedicated to fostering inclusive pathways for student admission. At UBC's Faculty of Medicine, I supported initiatives for Indigenous, rural, and Black student admissions. I am committed to advancing inclusive admissions policies at the University of Lethbridge as well.

I look forward to contributing to the Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion Advisory Council and further enhancing the University of Lethbridge as a vibrant learning community for all students.
